Screen & Element Guide

A structural wireframe of every screen — the element inventory and rough arrangement — with each interface element numbered and spec'd (including current dimensions). It tells you what each screen contains and what art each element needs, so nothing is missed when you theme the app.

14 screens

Wireframe layout

Numbered on-element markers

Dimensions + specs

These wireframes are not the design. They show structure only — no colors, type, icons, or materials are implied, and the current app art is not a reference to match (much of it is placeholder and wrong). Dimensions are the current values for scale, not fixed targets — only tap-target sizes, safe areas, and contrast are constraints. Boxes and positions are schematic. You define the actual look; mark up anything here that's wrong.

How to read each page

1. The wireframe is a labeled skeleton of one screen — every element as a plain box, with its numbered marker sitting on the element.
2. That number maps to the spec table: role, current size, interaction/states, the theming hooks it keys to (accent / course-color variables), and the art it needs.
3. Light & dark: the app has no fixed default — it follows the device setting. Design every element for both, clearing contrast on each ($\geq 4.5:1$ text / $\geq 3:1$ large & UI).
4. Full-bleed screens: the Course Map and every game playfield fill the screen below the bar (barring the HUD/buttons) — design them edge-to-edge.
5. Player-scaled screens (Player Setup, Scorecard, Summary, Scavenger Hunt) add one row/chip per player; they're drawn at the 4-player maximum (1–4 supported), so design for the fullest layout.
6. The live, re-skinable element inventory is the `/style` route in the running app; this document measures the current build.
